Advances in Science and Research

Open Access Journal for Reviewed Proceedings and
Special Publications

Aims & Scope

Advances in Science and Research (ASR) is an international, interdisciplinary journal for fast publication of collections of short, but self-contained communications in all fields of science and research, published in separate volumes by Copernicus Publications on WWW with the option of a publication on paper (print-on-demand) and on CD-ROM. The collections may include papers presented at scientific meetings (proceedings) or articles on a well defined topic compiled by individual editors or organizations (special publications).

The evaluation of the manuscript is organized by Guest-Editors, i.e. either by the conveners of a session of a conference or by the organizers of a meeting or workshop or by editors appointed otherwise, and their chosen referees. The production of articles accepted for publication, however, is performed by the Copernicus Publications Production Office. Therefore, the publication charges will only include the charges for the production of an article and its online publication, while the evaluation is free of charge. It is recommended that the publication charges are part of the registration fees or that the event/special publication organizers find financial support by third sides.
